Already cached: 0 B. `wget sudo rpm --import linux_signing_key.pub` Once completed the import of the key, update the repo cache of zypper. Click the Download button. Light up a terminal and execute the following command. Step 1: Open command terminal To add the repo we need to open the Linux terminal as well, or go for applications and search for the command line tool there or simply use the keyboard shortcut i.e. CTRL+ALT+T Step 2: Add chrome browser repository in OpenSUSE The next step is to add the official Chrome card in SUSE Linux using your management tool packets called ZYPper. We need to add google's public signature key so that packages can be verified. Select 64-bit RPM packets and click Accept and install. Although it is free to choose what you want, I strongly recommend the use of The Chromium for various reasons, especially for service concerns and privacy. `zypper sudo in google-chrome-beta sudo zypper in google-chrome-unstable` It's possible to have the three builds coexist on the same system. In fact, Chrome has been the top browser for quite some time! Thanks to its superior performance, you can easily outrun other competitors like Firefox or IE. Total download size: 63.7 MiB. The open code code is now maintained by the Chromium project while Google manages Google Chrome by itself. We'll show you both. Wait a few minutes, the Chromium will be on your system. Continue? In the case of The Chromium, it presents a hand full of licenses [y/n]...? So after that, I would be able to fetch the packages and update to that specific response. That's not to say that the other browsers don't run fast. Stay safe on the web and enjoy! Google Chrome is a popular browser from chromium; we can install it on almost all major operating systems such as Windows, macOS and Linux. Step 3: Add Google's Public Signature Key To make sure that the browser packages we download are not changed and download from the original source, the system needs a GNU Privacy Guard (GPG) signed keys sung to Google Linux packages. Different parts of are licensed under different y conditions. So here's the command to do this: `sudo zypper ar Google-Chrome SA to the above command: Adding the Google-Chrome` to the repository. Step 4: Update the system When we add the repository, we need to inform the system that we added a new browser repository and release the Cache to rebuild it. Chrome and chrome are very similar, but at the same time, different. The biggest difference would be the list of resources. Here is the command: `zypper up`. To learn more about ZYPper and your use, see How to use ZYPper in OpenSUSE. After downloading, the YAST2 Software Manager will open and prompt you to enter the user's password. End thoughts Be Google Chrome or Chromium, you guaranteed to unlock the maximum web performance potential that your hardware and Internet can handle. Resolving Package Dependencies ... One of the main reasons why people are using it because of the environment he created. Installing Google Chrome in the OpenSuse of the Repo The following is the recommended way to install Google Chrome as it will allow Chrome's automatic update directly from Google. `wget sudo rpm --import` Linux Signing Key Pub Step 4: Update the system When we add the repository, we need to inform the system that we added a new browser repository and release the Cache to rebuild it.
